THE FAMILY OF TURNER

An ancient house of Norman-French origin, the Turners appear in England at the time of the Conquest. In the thirty-five different branches of the British family there are as many varied coats-of-arms. The distinguishing feature of a majority of these is the mill rind in which the center of the millstone is set, indicating that the early Turners were millwrights or millers.

In America perhaps the earliest arrival was Humphrey Turner, who settled in Plymouth, Mass., in 1628. He became prominent in Scituate and conducted a tannery there as early as 1636. The Turners became a numerous family in Massachusetts, Rhode Island and in Maine.

During King Phillip's War, Captain William Turner gained a great victory in the Connecticut Valley, where Turner's Falls, near Greenfield, Mass., was afterward named for him.

In Maine the town of Turner was named for Rev. Charles Turner, one of the descendants of the first Humphrey. In Pennsylvania and Virginia, there were early arrivals who established large and prosperous communities. As early as 1672, Henry Turner was living in Northampton Parish, Va. In 1750 the Turners were firmly settled in North Carolina.

The Turner Family Magazine will endeavor to present in each issue, new and heretofore unpublished records of the Turners in America, and private data and records from family bibles are solicited for publication. In future numbers we purpose to print nearly complete lists of the early Turner marriages from all the United States, from 1630 to 1875. These alone will be well worth the price asked for the magazine. W. M. C.

EARLY SETTLERS IN CONNECTICUT

In 1760, the first permanent settlers came to Northfield, Conn., in the Litchfield hills. These came from North Haven by ox team, one, Titus Turner, building a log house. The well dug by Turner is still in use, though the house has disappeared. Others followed these first settlers, and in 1762, the first child, James Marsh, was born in the new settlement, then called Litchfield Southeast farms. In 1778 the woods were still thick so that little Rhoda Turner, daughter of the first settler, when sent with dinner to workmen cutting timber, lost her way and the whole settlement was roused to find her. There is a tradition of a battle between the Litchfield Indians, or "Bunkers" and the New Haven Indians, who had come up the valley in quest of certain shiny stones for traders, which resulted in victory for the former.

There were several taverns in Northfield, as the stage route between Albany and Hartford ran through the village. One was on the top of the hill where the churches which have succeeded "the church and the meetin' house" are still located. Three taverns were built in 1782, it is said. About 1800, Jacob Turner, a descendant of the first Titus, established a tavern, whose sign is still in existence, which was a half-way house, where travelers were refreshed and horses changed in the old stage coach days. In 1791, when the first post-office was established in Litchfield, a post rider left it once a week, on Monday morning, carrying with him the mail for "South East Farms," when on his way to Hartford. South East Farms was incorporated by the legislature as a winter parish, from November to April of each year, in 1789, and the first meeting is said to have been held October 15 of that year. At this meeting it was voted to hire a minister to preach the gospel for six months, and on November 2, it was voted to lay a tax of £25, one-third to be raised in money, the remaining two-thirds in wheat, rye, corn, buckwheat or oats. In 1794 it was voted to build a meeting house west of Titus Turner's, if that worthy consented to let the society have a convenient spot for a green. In 1794 Northfield petitioned the general assembly to be set off as a parish and it was incorporated in the fall of that year.

The Rev. Joseph E. Camp was pastor from 1795 to 1837, and was known as "Priest Camp." He married Rhoda Turner, daughter of Titus Turner, already referred to as the little girl lost in the woods in 1778. He made brick in the brickyard of Chauncey Warner in the first years of his ministry and later taught school in his house. One of his sons was for many years a physician at Northfield, Dr. David Bushrod Washington Camp—usually known as "Dr. Bushrod"—another was Dr. Joseph W. Camp, of Bristol, one was a clergyman, another a judge.

PENNSYLVANIA RECORDS

Among the office holders in the three original counties of Pennsylvania were the following:

Cornelius Turner, justice of the peace in Sussex Co., in 1767.

Robert Turner, one of the five provincial governors held office from 9 February, 1688, to 18 December, 1888. He was also a member of the Governor's Council from 1693 to 1700. He was appointed by William Penn. He was Recorder General from 5 May, 1686 to 4 March, 1690, and in 1686 was Deputy Surveyor.

Joseph Turner was a member of the Governor's Council from 1747 to 1776. He died in 1783.

LEMUEL TURNER OF MAINE

Lemuel Turner, baptized 2d church, Scituate, Mass., August 14, 1720, published, Scituate, September 29, 1750 to Hannah Buck, daughter of Deacon Israel and Mary (Merritt) Buck of Hanover, is doubtless identical with the Lemuel Turner who married in Durham, Me., January 16, 1755, Abigail Starbird. Mary (Merrit) Buck died in 1755 and in the settlement of her estate mention is made of "the legal representatives of daughter Hannah deceased." Lemuel disappears from Massachusetts records after his first marriage in 1750, although an old Genealogy, published many years ago and sadly deficient in detail, gives to him and his wife Hannah Buck, a daughter Hannah, who is supposed to be the Hannah Turner, who married in Augusta, November 21, 1771, David Wall. There were Walls, also from Plymouth Co., in the new settlements along the Kennebec river about the time the Turners came to that section. Lemuel Turner was the first treasurer of the "District of Harpswell" set off from Yarmouth in 1758. Durham and Freeport were originally included also in North Yarmouth.

Plymouth Co. Probate 21-177. "Lemuel Turner of Harpswell Co., Cumberland, yeoman, appointed this day administrator of estate of his father, Isaac Turner, late of Hanover, deceased, September 9, 1779."

The Maine Census, enumeration of 1790, says "Lemuel Turner of Freeport, three males, including head of the family over 16; four females, including head of the family over sixteen." Lemuel and his wife were both living in 1804. It had been no little trouble to corroborate this Census report, as in North Yarmouth Melzar Turner settled and his children married there.

1. Starbird, born 1775-6, married (1) November 1775, Olive Davis; married (2) 1828———— Blackwell, died Rome, 1838.

2. Desire, born October 22, 1758, married November 28, 1776, Stephen Weston, res., Durham, Freeport.

3. Isaac, born ————, married 1788, Molly Hanscom. (He settled in Durham).

4. Ezekiel, born ————, married January 12, 1792, Joanna Roberts. He was drowned at sea at the age of 55 years.

5. Abigail, born 1772, married 1793, John Hatch.

6. Elisha, born ————, married August 6, 1795, Rachel Bray.

7. Lydia, born ————, married August 20, 1776, Benjamin Vining.

8. Lucy, born ————, married June 22, 1786, Paul Morse.

Starbird, the eldest son, served at various times in the Revolutionary War. In 1790 he was living in Newfield according to the census (Washington Plantation) and his family then was "one male, one male under sixteen, and four females."

The records of Newfield, and of surrounding towns (N. H. as well) afford no clue regarding him, but in 1804 his name appears on the town records of Rome, and for many years he took an important part in the business of the town. On those records is this data, "Starbird Turner and Olive Turner, Inhabitants of the town of Rome, June 1804. Married November, 1775, and have issue as follows

1. Avis, born at Durham, N. H., March 22, 1783.
2. Sarah, born at Newfield, May 15, 1785.
3. Lemuel, born at Newfield, May 25, 1787.
4. Betsey, born at Newfield, June, 1789.
5. Asa, born at Wakefield, October 16, 1791.
6. Daniel, born at Newfield, January 15, 1793.
7. Abigail, born at Newfield, May 1, 1795.

There may have been other children born previous to 1783, as a daughter Eliza is not enumerated with the foregoing, unless she can be identical with Betsey. She is buried at Rome in the same enclosure as her father. He has no stone to mark his grave, but hers, tells us she died July 17, 1837, aged 50 years.

Descendants say that Starbird Turner's wife was Olive Davis. He married (2) 1828 ——— Blackwell. He died in 1838. His sons, Lemuel, Asa and Daniel, all settled in Rome.

THE GIRLS OF BETHLEHEM

The Moravian Seminary for Young Ladies, at Bethlehem, Penn., is one of the oldest female institutions of learning in this country. Since 1786, thousands of young ladies have attended the Bethlehem school. In the early days few of the pupils were Moravians, but were members of aristocratic and wealthy families, and for many years the seminary was quite the vogue. The following list of pupils, recently found, will prove of great genealogical interest.

A VIRGINIA FAMILY

(Contributed)

Prior to 1748 were born in Virginia three brothers, named Shadrach, Meshack, and Abednego Turner, who were no doubt, the sons of Bible-reading parents. Their names were taken from the third chapter of the Book of Daniel, wherein is written:

"Blessed be the God of Shadrach, Meshack, and Abednego, who hath sent his angel, and delivered his servants that trusted in him, and have changed the king's word, and yielded their bodies, that they might not serve nor worship any god except their own God."—Daniel III. 28.

Shadrach Turner was the owner of 4400 acres of land in Halifax County. The first patent was in 1748. He was active in his county, being overseer of roads and processioner of lands. He lived next in Pittsylvania County, then in Henry County, where he died according to his will, made in 1783.

William Turner a son of Shadrach was born in 1753 and was in the Revolutionary War in 1777. He married Jane Hunter, daughter of William Hunter. For 72 years they were members of the Baptist Church. William Turner was the father of a large family and a remarkable thing was their longevity, twelve of his sons and daughters averaging 83 years of life.

EARLY ENGLISH TURNERS

(Contributed)

William Turner, a native of Morpeth, Northumberland, was educated at Pembroke hall, Cambridge. He warmly embraced the tenets of the reformation, and preached to various congregations, till Gardiner, jealous of his popularity, imprisoned him. When liberated he went to the continent, and took his doctor's degree of medicine at Ferrara. He returned to England, on Edward's accession, and was made dean of Wells, but he went into exile, under Mary, till the elevation of Elizabeth recalled him, and restored him to his ecclesiastical honors. He wrote a treatise on the baths of England, and Germany, and various botanical works. He died in 1568.

Thomas Turner, an able divine, was born at Reading, Berks, and educated at St. John's college, of which he became a fellow. He was in 1629 made residentiary of St. Paul's, and chaplain to Charles I. whom he accompanied in his expedition to Scotland, and in 1641, he was made dean of Rochester, and soon after of Canterbury. These dignities, and particularly the favor of Charles, rendered him very suspected to the parliament, and during the civil wars, he was stripped of his preferment, with every mark of cruel insult, and meditated ignominy. The restoration replaced him in his ecclesiastical offices and he died in 1672, aged 81.

Francis Turner, son of the above, was educated at Winchester school, and New college, Oxford, and he afterwards obtained a prebend of St. Paul's, and the deanery of Windsor. He was in 1683, made bishop of Rochester, and the next year removed to Ely, but his opposition to the king's measures rendered him unpopular at court, and he was one of the seven bishops sent to the Tower. At the revolution he refused to take the oaths to William, and was consequently deprived of his perferment. He wrote some sermons, besides religious poems, and the life of Nicholas Ferrar, and died in privacy, 1700. Robert Turner, an English divine, quitted the kingdom to preserve his attachment to the Romish church. He was for some time in the service of the duke of Bavaria, who employed him in negotiations, and he afterwards became canon of Breslau, and died at Gratz, 1597. He wrote commentaries on Scripture and other theological works.

Ezekiel Turner died in New London, Conn., 16 January, 1703-4. He was a son of John Turner of Scituate (wife Mary Brewster) and grandson of Humphrey Turner, immigrant of 1628. His mother was Mary, daughter of Jonathan Brewster. At New London we have no account of him earlier than his marriage with Sussannah, daughter of John Keeny, 26 December, 1678. He left one son, Ezekiel, and ten daughters. Ezekiel Turner, second, married Borradil Denison and settled in Groton. Elisha and Thomas Turner, supposed also to come from the Scituate family, settled in the town after 1720. (Elisha was drowned 1734-5). From Thomas, who married Patience, daughter of John Bolles, 23 November, 1727. most of the Turner families of New London and Montville are descended. 1. Charles, born 13 May, 1844.

JESSE TURNER OF ARKANSAS

(Contributed)

Jesse Turner, a famous lawyer of Arkansas, was of Irish ancestry. His grandfather James, a highly respectable farmer, emigrated from the North part of Ireland and settled in Lancaster county, Penn., about the year 1760. The maternal branch of the family, by name Clendenin, were also from the same part of Ireland. Soon after the settlement of the grandfather in Lancaster county, James, the father of Jesse, was born. About the year 1765, the family removed to Orange county, North Carolina.

The spirit of independence and liberty was exhibited in the Turner family before the revolution. In that serious and singular outbreak against the courts and lawyers of North Carolina, the elder James participated. He fought at the once famous battle of Almance, and acted as a "Regulator" in all the noted and daring incidents of the rebellion.

In the war of the revolution which soon after followed, the younger James underwent the hardships, privations and misfortunes that were companions of the American soldiers in those days of tribulation. He fought under Greene on the bloody field of Guilford Court House. He served in expeditions against the Tories, and was prisoner for six months in the dungeons of the British at Charleston.

After the revolution he remained in Orange county, an independent cultivator of the soil, and here Jesse Turner was born. At the Salem meetinghouse, under the tuition of Daniel Turrentine, he received the rudiments of his education. Upon leaving school his choice of professions fell upon the law. Accordingly, in the vicinity of Chapel Hill, under the direction of William McCauley, he entered upon and pursued that study with such close application and success that a license to practice in the county courts was granted him by the termination of a year. Another twelve months placed him in possession of a license to practice in the Superior Courts.

Being now a full practitioner, Mr. Turner commenced the prosecution of professional duties in his native State at Waynesboro, in Wayne county. But looking abroad, an ampler field for his exertions was presented in the new territories of the West, and he emigrated to Arkansas. His arrival was at that time when rude log huts, scattered at far distances, marked the abodes of civilization; when the practice of courts was unsettled, and juries gave verdicts that illy accorded with "law and evidence"; when crimes and misdemeanors prevailed to an extent that blackened the character of the territory.

Mr. Turner, a stranger stripling, without money or friends, without experience or advice, began the practice of his profession at the seat of justice of Crawford county. He was once elected to the General Assembly of Arkansas, and as a member attained the highest distinction. In 1840 he took an active part in the Presidential contest. At the Whig Convention held at Little Rock in that year, he was called to preside over its deliberations by acclamation. In 1841 he was selected by Hon. John Bell, Secretary of War, as one of the Committee of Visitation to attend the examination of Cadets at West Point, but was prevented from being present by indisposition.

In 1842, Mr. Turner was married to Miss Violetta P. Drennen, of Pittsburg, Penn. She died the following year and there were no children.

In the Presidential canvass of 1848, Mr. Turner was chosen one of the Whig electors for Arkansas. He canvassed the western and northern portions of the State, battling with eloquence and enthusiasm for the principles of his party.

He never sought an office. When on a visit to the north in the spring of 1841, intending to pay his respects to the President, he arrived at Washington. But General Harrison was no more. He, however, called on Mr. Tyler, who disposing of the eager office seekers that thronged the White House, turned to Mr. Turner, inquiring blandly what office he desired. Mr. Turner arose immediately from his chair, and remarked with warmth, "Office! good heavens, sir! I want no office whatever, and wish not to be considered, sir, in that class that prowl about you seeking the spoils of our Government."

MICAH TURNER OF WEYMOUTH

(Contributed)

Micah and Betthiah (Allen) Turner of Weymouth, Mass., had twelve children, six of them sons. Of the later, three died in October, 1751, (Weymouth Vital Records). Betthiah Allen, wife of Micah Turner, was the daughter of Nehemiah Allen and Sarah Wormel. Nehemiah Allen was born in 1681, son of Deacon Samuel Allen of East Bridgewater and Sarah Partridge, daughter of George Partridge and Sarah Tracy. The latter was daughter of Stephen Tracy, who came in the ship Ann from Leyden in 1623.

Weymouth Records give marriage of a Betthiah Turner and Reuben Burrell, 3 December, 1789. Jacob, son of Micah and Betthiah, married Hannah Porter in 1788. JABEZ TURNER

In 1887, one of the few remaining veterans of the War of 1812, Jabez Turner, died at his home, No. 183 Hudson Street, New York City. He had almost completed his eighty-ninth year. He was born in 1797 on his father's farm, in Berkshire County, Mass., where he remained until the war of 1812 broke out. He enlisted as a private. After the war he came to New York, and after some time obtained employment with the Delaware and Hudson Canal Company, with whom he remained for about twenty years as a weigher. He never joined the Association of the Veterans of the War of 1812, nor took any active part in politics.

William Turner was the first settler in Candia, N. H., buying land there in 1741. In 1747, he married Sarah Colby, daughter of Enoch Colby and Abigail Sanborn. He died 8 December, 1796; his wife 28 May, 1810-11.

AN ENGLISH WILL

(Contributed)

In Fewston, England, Robert Turner, who died in the year 1551, was of kindly disposition and charitable, as will be seen by the following bequest in his last will and testament.

"To Thomas Thorpe, my nevey, all my lether and all maner of stuff belonging to the occupacion within my shoppe. Allso I will yt he make thirtyn pair of shoys, which shalbe geven to thirtyn pooer folkes within the paryshe of Fuyston."

Evidently Robert Turner was the owner of a shoe-shop in his native town.

MAJOR HARRY TURNER OF VIRGINIA

(Contributed)

Major Harry Turner of Virginia, died in 1751 (before his father), and was the only son of Doctor Thomas Turner, the immigrant to reach manhood. He married Elizabeth, the only surviving daughter of Colonel Nicholas Smith of "Smith's Mount" in Westmoreland County, Va. Major Harry Turner married Elizabeth Smith, with a goodly dower of lands and other possessions, inherited from her opulent father. Major Turner left one son, Thomas, who married Colonel William Fauntleroy's daughter, Miss Jane Fauntleroy of "Nayor's Hole." They had four sons and four daughters.

Thomas Turner, the father of Major Harry, settled at Port Conway, and owned large estates. He probably married a Taliaferro.

Major Harry Turner was one of the incorporators of Bary's Church on the Rappahannock. The titles were invested in Thomas Lee, Esq., Charles Carter, Thomas Turner, Harry Turner, Maxmillion Robinson and Nicholas Smith, gentlemen.

In the graveyard of "Smith's Mount" is the tomb of Colonel Nicholas Smith, with this inscription:

"Here lies the body of Col. Nicholas Smith, son of Elizabeth Smith, born in London, the fourth day of September, 1666. Married his wife in the twenty-third year of her age, by whom he had no child. Married his second wife in 1722, by which he had three children, one son and two daughters. Departed this life the 18th of March, 1734, in the 68th year of his age."

Two of these children died, and Major Harry, as above stated married the surviving daughter, Elizabeth.

At Port Conway, there is an Episcopal Chapel and in the yard is the tomb of Harry Turner, with this inscription:

"Beneath this marble
Are deposited the remains of Major Harry Turner,
1751,
And Elizabeth his wife, 1752.

"Who with credit and esteem possessed and enjoyed, an ample fortune from which unerring wisdom, thought fit to snatch them in their bloom, together with three sons who all dyed in their infancy."

The Arms on the tomb of Major Harry Turner, at Port Conway are Ermine, four fer-de-molines, sable.

Crest: Allion (sargent) holding in the dexter paw, a fer-de-moline, sable, Motto "Esse quam videri."
